I am grateful to Brandeis University, the Samuel Rubin Foundation, and the Research Institute for the Study of Man whose funds enabled me to conduct field work in Barbados. To Robert Manners I owe a special debt of gratitude for his help and encouragement while this thesis was being written. Lambros Comitas introduced me to and guided my initial field work in Barbados and to him, and to David Kaplan, Carroll Riley, and Arnold Strickon I am thankful for many helpful comments and criticisms of the thesis in various stages of its growth.
